DESIGN PHILOSOPHY

Asia is the largest continent in the world. In it there are 48 countries that work together to uphold their respective ownership. A rod-like shape that has been made of 48 different lengths to show the development of each country. Even though they look different, they are still united by a circle as a form of solidarity, the solidity of the openSUSE community.

Why is the circle not made full? The rapid development of technology does not make openSUSE shut down but is open to change. Even become a trend setter. Its embodiment is in a 60-degree circular gap which when viewed in a negative space will form an arrow as a direction to point to the openSUSE mascot.
